

The Qur'anic Principles for the Implementation of Shariah

Prof. Dr. Muhammad Shakil Auj*

At the time of the Prophet (S.A.W) of Islam, when he was in madinah, there was not much complications & difficulties in implementation of Shariah. Every injunction of Shariah was implemented whenever it was revealed. While in the period of Makkiate life of the Prophet (S.A.W) of Islam, Shariah was concerned only with the individual person. In the Madanite period it became the matter of the state. Indeed Shariah is such a blessing of Allah, which we ought to comprehend and furthermore, implement and practice it at the state level.

We have illustrated a few Qur'anic principles for the implementation of Shariah and the formation of Islamic law through the profound study of Qur'an. In the light of these principles, it is evident that, the Shariah is only the great blessing of God for us and whatever legislation is made considering these principles, the society will be filled with prosperity and divine mercy. The following principles are outlined in the article.

1. The Principle of discipline. 2. Principle of acquiring power. 3. Principle of Progression. 4. Principle of easiness/facilitation. 5. Principle of extent/wideness. 6. Principle of non-confinement. 7. Principle of alleviation. 8. Principle of falsification.
